THE HANGING GARDENS GETS THE RIGHT NOTES

ON Saturday, April 2

WHERE Kamala Nehru Udyan, Malabar Hills, Hanging Gardens.

TIME 5.30 to 8 pm

In an attempt to revive the city's long-forgotten bandstand culture, the Bombay Chambers of Commerce and Industry is organising live band performances in different parts of the city. They are trying to recreate an environment from the 1800s, by bringing back the live band experience in open areas. As part of this effort, Ankit Dayal and Vasudha Sharma will be performing live at Hanging Gardens on Saturday. The event is free and open to all. It promises to be an evening filled with fun and music. Vasudha Sharma, one-time member of the band Aasma is one of the few Indian artists who can assemble an entire recorded song on stage, infusing vocals and instruments, creating a refined blend using the loop station.
